

Sheryl Stalnaker Palette Knife Painting Workshop

When: Friday and Saturday April 7th and 8th - 9am-4pm

Where: Crooked Creek Recreation Center – Art Room, 1098 Old Lexington, Hwy, Chapin, SC

Who: Sheryl is an outstanding palette knife painter from Charleston.

Website: Her bio and many other paintings may be seen on her web site <http://sherylstalnaker.com/about>

Description: “Are you ready to experiment with different ways to layer paint? In this workshop, you will use both brushes and a palette knife to build up layers of paint, creating a dynamic surface and interesting effects.” During the workshop, Sheryl will demonstrate several paintings, including initial lay-in, building up layers with a palette knife, and glazing for finishing touches. Sheryl explores a variety of subjects in her paintings, but will be focusing on the landscape during her demonstrations, especially skies and water. Students should bring several reference photos for work from. Any subject, not just landscape, can be painted. “Painting with a palette knife is challenging, freeing, messy and loads of fun - come join us!”
