

Laurie Meyer Color Workshop

The Workshop

I always say a painting has a head, a heart, and a soul. In this workshop, we will explore and study that which gives our paintings heart: color.

Color is described with emotive words. “I love the colors!” “His colors make me feel so good”. “I just don’t like her colors.”

This workshop - emphasis on “work”! - will help you discover color secrets to light and its beautiful opposite, shadow. You will learn about the science behind seeing color and the art behind painting it. You will learn how to discern the color of light, underpaint to achieve it, and create harmony in your work.

I love teaching this workshop because it is different from a “watch me demo and then you do it” format. It is very hands on and explorative and you will leave with a lot of great knowledge that you will apply to your work from here on out. I want to give you a tool box that you will have forever.

I look forward to meeting you all in May! Please email me at LaurMey@gmail.com if you have specific questions about color prior to the workshop. I will address the questions that you have. Thank you for taking my color workshop. I promise you will love it!
