

Jim Harrison

Jim Harrison Gallery in Denmark, SC is home to the work and legacy of Jim Harrison. Harrison's work is universal in appeal – blurring the lines that can otherwise mark the boundaries of society.

His paintings and prints can be found in prestigious museums and in elegant beach houses – in large international corporate offices and in modest country homes. This universal appeal has led to more than 100 sold out limited editions of the prints made from his paintings and thousands of collectors of his work across the country. Harrison's paintings are featured in museums and in personal and corporate art collections across the country.

This small-town, self-proclaimed country boy successfully made his living as a full-time artist for more than 50 years, a major yet difficult achievement in today's world. His highly praised one-man shows include shows at the prestigious Hammer Galleries in New York and the Conacher Gallery in San Francisco with his paintings also included in the renowned National Academy Gallery in New York. In his career, he scaled the heights of success as an artist and received the accolades that followed. In recognition of his contributions, he was honored by the Governor of South Carolina with the exalted Order of the Palmetto Award. He was also honored for his many contributions to art and the State of South Carolina by the South Carolina House of Representatives and was awarded an Honorary Doctorate of Fine Arts by the University of South Carolina.

Since losing this great artist in 2016, Jim Harrison Gallery has continued to share his work with the world and assist other artists through featured artist exhibits throughout the year and by sponsoring the Dogwood Festival Juried Art Show.
